

COMMUNITY GUIDELINES

WCSU uses social media to reach and engage with the university community and the world.

While we encourage users to be creative with their content and interactive with followers, administrators reserve the right to delete any content or comments that don't adhere to the WCSU Policy Guidelines.

Posts will be removed for the following reasons:

- Threatening, abusive, bullying, profane, discriminatory, or harassing language, trolling and spam
- Violating copyrights or trademarks
- Endorsing illegal activity of any kind
- Endorsement or opposition of any political candidate or campaign
- Disclosing confidential information
- Promoting businesses, products, services, or individuals

Communications made through social media do not constitute a legal agreement of any kind with WCSU, its agencies, faculty, or staff. A reference to third-party organizations on social media accounts affiliated with WCSU in no way represents endorsement by WCSU.
